Community invited to select books for their library

CLARENCE Valley library users are invited to have their say in what they want to see on library shelves.

On Tuesday (March 19) from 4-7pm at the Grafton library, residents will be able to choose from a range of fiction and non-fiction books.

Regional librarian, Kathryn Breward, said it was a chance for Friends of Grafton Library and their friends, to have a say in what the library buys.

“While our libraries are always responsive to requests from the community for new book purchases, this event gives people the chance to go through a large selection of new books and pick the ones they would like to read,” she said.

“It is also a good opportunity to chat with library staff, booksellers and other readers about your reading passion.”

Library members can have the books reserved on the day so that after the items have been processed, they can be the first to take them home.

Release ends.
